AXA FINANCIAL, INC.

ALTER HALL AUDITORIUM

12:00PM TO 12:50PM

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 2011

With more than two decades of Risk Management experience with Fortune 500 companies, David G. Rogers, vice president, AXA Equitable Life Insurance Company has managed risks and business continuity for manufacturing conglomerates, financial services and entertainment companies. During his career, he has developed a keen eye for identifying the numerous ways that companies expose themselves to potential liabilities through inefficiencies, miscommunication and inadequate project controls. Mr. Rogers is a champion of teamwork, innovation and technology, and has worked diligently to protect the assets of organizations while reducing their potential exposures to catastrophic loss. He has been an integral member of acquisition and divestiture teams and new business development projects. Mr. Rogers is a specialist in historic insurance reconstruction, also known as insurance archaeology. His re-search has contributed to his employers and clients discovering previously unknown prepaid insurance assets and exculpatory evidence used in litigation. Examples of Mr. Rogers' insurance archeology research include an in-depth contractual analysis of landscaping vs. standing timber in property claims disputes and the design and use of "ghost" insurance policies as collateral in self-insured workers' compensation programs. A graduate of Howard University, Mr. Rogers holds a Bachelor of Business Administration in Insurance, an Associate in Risk Management (ARM) and Associate in Insurance Services (AIS) designations from the Insurance Institute of America.
