The Delaware Valley Alumni Chapter, in conjunction with the Sigma Chapter, of Gamma Iota Sigma was pleased to announce its First Annual Alumni Luncheon held on Tuesday, December 6, 2005 at the Union League of Philadelphia. The event focused on the issue of transparency and the challenges and opportunities facing the industry as a result. Mr. Robert Clements, industry leader and founder of Integro Ltd., served as the keynote speaker. After sharing his thoughts and views relating to transparency and the industry, Mr. Clements opened the floor to answer any and all questions. With the Bowers Award making another appearance at Temple, the 25th anniversary of the Sigma chapter, and one of the largest career fairs in our distinguished history; Gamma Iota Sigma winds down another successful semester. There were many events that defined our program once again in the Fall 2005. Between the distinguished Wednesday speakers to early Saturday morning community service events, members untied to work towards a common goal of making GIS the most active, largest, and most distinguished student organization at Temple University.

The event was held in order to add value to our current relationships with alumni and to re-establish a connection with alumni who have lost touch. It did just that. It provided Gamma Iota Sigma alumni, as well as other industry professionals, with a great opportunity to socialize, network and see old friends. It also granted attendees the opportunity to gain unique insight into the current and future issues of the industry from the perspective of an influential industry leader!

The event was endorsed by both the CPCU Society and RIMS and was covered by Risk & Insurance Magazine and Advisen Ltd. The event also had minor coverage in Leader's Edge Magazine in the January/February 2006 Issue in the Letter to the Editor section
