Ed Hanna serves as a Practice & Team Leader with wide responsibilities including enterprise risk management (ERM), cyber risk, major account teams, thought leadership, and market outreach at Conner Strong & Buckelew.

Ed oversees the development and delivery of new technologies and services to help clients better manage their overall cost of risk. The ERM practice works closely with Major Accounts and Employee Benefits Divisions to bring services full circle by mapping risks to commercial and human capital insurance solutions. Further, the ERM practice helps clients gain awareness of non-insurable risks too often managed in silos and be positioned to make better decisions to mitigate the downside and capitalize on the upside of risk.

Hanna has over 20 years' experience with both enterprise and insurance-based risk management solutions in a broad range of industry verticals, including life sciences, healthcare, professional services, and education, among others. Prior to joining Conner Strong & Buckelew, Hanna was the Commercial and Sales Team Leader for RCM&D's Pennsylvania offices. He served as player coach responsible for growth, service and retention by leading teams of Property and Casualty sales and service professionals in Philadelphia and Harrisburg.
