Actuarial Science Workshops

Please note that this semester the Actuarial Science Career Development Committee will sometimes be holding two separate workshops on Fridays, a basic and an advanced workshop. Advanced workshops are intended for returning students.

AS Basic Workshop: What is an Actuary?

Friday, September 15, 2017
12:00pm-12:50pm
Alter Hall 034

This workshop offers new members the opportunity to explore the various aspects of the actuarial profession. Students will be introduced to the Society of Actuaries (SOA) and the Casualty Actuarial Society (CAS), as well as the opportunities that both societies have to offer. The workshop will also cover the differences between working for an insurance carrier and a consulting firm. Attendees will leave the workshop with a better understanding of what it means to be an actuary and of potential career paths.

AS Advanced Workshop: Destress Event

Friday, September 15, 2017
12:00pm-12:50pm
Speakman 114

Come out to an all new Career Reception Destress Event. This event will allow you to practice and hone your screening interview skills in a casual, informal, and non-stressful environment. You will be able to ask other members about their experiences interviewing and interning with many of the companies attending the reception this year. You will also be able to practice your elevator pitch on your peers, so you will know exactly what you're doing when you walk into the MBA Commons the day of the reception. If you have any questions about the reception or nerves you'd like to work out, this is the event for you!
